* No exhibits were held these years when the U. S. War Department leased the Main Farm Show Building as a training school for aircraft workers and later for the reconditioning of airplane motors. Farm Show Week Educational Meetings of State-wide agricultural organizations were held as usual in Harrisburg, sponsored by the State Farm Show Commission.

THE PENNSYLVANIA FARM SHOW

The Pennsylvania Farm Show is held in January of each year--five days and four nights, Monday through Friday. Its purpose is to advance agriculture by recognizing agricultural achievement. This year's event marks the 55th in the annual series.

The show originated from scattered exhibits of fruit and grains at annual meetings of farm organizations in Harrisburg. The first Farm Show was held in January 1917. It is now the largest free indoor agricultural exposition under one roof in the United States.

Supervision and management is by the State Farm Products Show Commission of nine members; operation is by the agricultural industry of Pennsylvania, represented by three delegates from each of 60 different statewide agricultural and allied organizations, comprising the Farm Show Committee.

The Farm Show Building was dedicated in January 1931. It contains approximately 11 acres under one continuous roof. The Large Arena was dedicated in January 1939. It has a seating capacity of 7,639 which can be increased to 12,000 by using temporary seats on the Arena floor.

The combined acreage of both the main Farm Show Building and the Large Arena is between 13 and 14 acres, and the estimated value of the land, buildings and equipment is $6,000,000. The main commercial exhibit hall is 780 feet by 218 feet, or 170,000 square feet.

Attendance annually is well over the half-million figure. Visitors are predominately Pennsylvania from rural and urban areas alike. However, agricultural leaders from a score or more different states, Canada, and a number of foreign countries also come each year to see the now world-famous Pennsylvania Farm Show.

There is no admission charge to the Farm Show or any of its scheduled events. Parking, too, is free on 60 acres adjacent to the building. Approximately 14,000 cars can be accommodated at one time.

A cafeteria, seating 600 and capable of serving 15,000 meals per day, is located on the second floor above the west lobby of the main show building. Service is continuous during the show. Lunch bars and portable sandwich and milk dispensing units are located at various points throughout the building.

Farm Show competitive exhibits, with the exception of certain classes of poultry, are limited to Pennsylvania producers. Premiums offered this year total $74,073.50 in 25 departments, an all-time high, and almost 100 times the value offered at the first Farm Show in 1917 when competitors vied for a total of $735. Plaques and other prizes are provided by the Farm Show Commission, breed associations and other organizations. The breakdown of premiums by categories follows. Within these categories are approximately 10,000 individual entries of farm and farm home products in about 11,000 classifications.

Horses, $4,225; Sheep, $5,703; Swine, $3,633; Beef Cattle, $14,430; Dairy Cattle, $20,850; Poultry, $8,119; Dressed Turkeys, $180; Eggs, $651; Corn, $565; Small Grains, $282; Potatoes, $219; Hay, $658; Tobacco, $312; Fruit, $2,850; Edible Nuts, $462; Vegetables, $1,435; Maple Products, $573; Apiary Products, $1,323; Entomology, $68; Christmas Trees, $262; Wool, $296; Home Economics, $3,084.50; Tractor Driving, $160; Folk Dance, $750; School Demonstration Contest, $1,040; School Exhibits, $910; Potato Grading $108; Horse Pulling, $800; Sheep Blocking and Grooming, $25; Good House-keeping, $100.

Educational exhibits are featured by various departments of both the State and Federal Governments, Farm organizations, and The Pennsylvania State University, including special exhibits in the main entrance lobby.

There are 227 commercial exhibitors occupying space in the main exhibit hall this year. The hall is also the site of the Pennsylvania farm commodity booths and the church food booths.

The barns at Farm Show are filled to capacity--more than 2,000 head of horses, beef and dairy cattle, swine and sheep, making it the largest state show in the East. The poultry show is one of the five largest in the United States and cages 2,000 birds.

The estimated value of commercial and competitive exhibits at the 1971 Farm Show is placed at $11,000,000.

No "midway" or carnival type amusements are permitted at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. The evening features in the Large Arena play to packed houses Monday through Thursday and for the visitor it usually means "go early to get a good seat." The program line-up for Monday is the traditional Secretary of Agriculture's Night and features the famous Pennsylvania State Police Exhibition; Tuesday, FFA Band Concert, Folk Dance Festival and Contest; Wednesday, State Championship Horse Rulling Contests, Six-Horse Hitch Demonstration; and Thursday, Livestock Cavalcade, 4-H Light Horse and Pony Demonstration.

Youth participation is evident everywhere at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Members of 4-H Club, Future Farmers, and Future Homemakers exhibit in 16 of the 25 competitive departments. The latter two groups also hold their awards conventions in the Forum of the State Education Building. And the highlight of the entire show is the selection of the 4-H Baby Beef grand champion steer, and the young man or woman lucky enough to capture the prize can expect star billing in newspapers and on television throughout the State.

All that encompasses Farm Show is protected around the clock by the Pennsylvania State Police, who additionally--despite the hazards of what has come to be known as "Farm Show weather" -- direct the voluminous flow of traffic to and from the Farm Show buildings.

The Pennsylvania Farm Show cannot be measured in dollar value to Pennsylvania agriculture, but as an annual educational institution it establishes new standards and stimulates sound thinking for development and advancing agriculture, which, in turn, enriches our entire population. The Farm Show may well be termed a living monument to our past, present and future in agriculture. It is the result of cooperative teamwork by individuals, agencies and organizations such as those that gave it life in 1917.

CHAROLAIS SPECIALS

The American-International Charolais Association will pay directly to the exhibitors in the Charolais Division of the Junior Beef Breeding Show additional premiums equal to that paid by the Farm Show.

The Pennsylvania Charolais Association offers a trophy for the Champion heifer in the Charolais Division.

To be eligible for these specials, animals must meet the eligibility requirements for open class Charolais animals.

Females containing 7/8 or more Charolais blood and sired by a registered Charolais bull will be eligible for competition in the Junior Beef Breeding Division.

HEREFORD SPECIAL

In the breeding classes, as provided by its standard junior show classification, the American Hereford Association adds 25 percent in premiums to amounts provided by the show and pays directly to the exhibitor 20 percent of the total on prizes of $5 or more. To be eligible for the Association's share, heifer entries must be registered and owned by the exhibitor in the records of the American Hereford Association. Only heifers calved on or after March 1, 1969 are eligible for AHA premiums.
